

IN THE ABSTRACT:

Apparatus for fitting a golf putter club to a golfer comprising a grip supporting a vertical adjustable rod and representing a vertical length A from the upper end of the grip to the ground and having a horizontal beam extending from the rod, on the ground for indicating the distance B from a point directly below the upper end of the grip to the nearest edge of a golf ball positioned for putting, including indicia directly reading the lengths A and B after adjustment of the apparatus.